6 PASSAGES

The nervous system is responsible for communication between the body and the brain. To pick up a pencil, the brain sends signals to the hands and fingers to reach down and grasp it. The brain is in constant communication with the rest of the body, sending signals back and forth about what is happening on the outside and how the body should react.

Each human body system is made up of certain body parts that work with different organs to complete a job. The nervous system is made up of the brain, the spinal cord, and a network of nerve cells (neurons). These cells, tissues, and organs help regulate the body's responses to stimuli, both internal and external. Stimuli is a thing or event that prompts a specific functional reaction in an organ or tissue.
